Starting from the pub (parking available for £1), turn R along road and take the bridleway on your L. This pleasant path will lead you up through the trees to join a track. On meeting the track turn L and follow until you enter Graig Wylt nature reserve. A short distance into the reserve at the bottom of a woven fence take the stone stile on your L. Follow the path downhill until you meet the road.

At the road turn R and very soon you will see a footpath sign leading into the field. Follow the path up through the field, keeping fairly close to the R hand boundary. There is a small craggy area at the top of the first field. Take the pedestrian gate just to the R of it. This will lead you to a second pedestrian gate next to a cave. In the next field there is a hedge straight in front of you with a field to its L and a wooded slope to its R. Go just to the R of the hedge and hug it fairly closely until you can go no further. You will meet a junction with another path and have a hedge straight in front of you. Turn R.

After turning R follow this well defined path all the way back into the reserve. You will find yourself descending the path next to the woven fence having completed a small loop. Ignore the stone stile this time and retrace your steps all the way back to the pub.
