

Croesor

A walk from Llanfrothen to Croesor featuring waterfalls.

Mostly dirt and gravel paths. Some slippery sections. This point-to-point walk can also be walked as an out-and back.

Enjoy this ramble? There are 145 Paths to Wellbeing routes to explore across Wales!

Moderate

308m

Linear

5.5km | 3.4m

02:00

S

Starting from the Y Garreg café, follow the road North towards Beddgelert. Take the first path signposted on your R, opposite the pub. Follow until you reach a junction of three kissing gates. Head through the gate straight ahead and then immediately L through the next gate, leading through a field. Follow the track uphill, slightly to the L. Head through the blue iron gate and follow the track uphill, past the stone cottages. The track will begin to trend downhill and then join a road.

1

Along the road you'll encounter some stone houses with two paths signposted to the L. Take the second path (beside a large beech tree) which heads through a pair of iron gates and along a track. You'll pass over a ladder stile. The path will meet an open field, with a gate to your left leading to a bridge over a stream. Cross this and follow the signposted footpath.

2

At the fork, turn R. Following the path, you'll pass a series of waterfalls. There is a path which runs directly alongside the waterfalls, as well as another path that continues uphill but avoids the waters edge. If you choose to take the former, take care as it can be slippery when wet, and runs close to the water. In either case, the paths converge after the falls. From here, continue following the footpath, trending uphill, past Garth y Foel and Cae Glas farm houses and up to the road. Turn R here for Croesor.