Starting from Treherbert train station, head safely over the train tracks via the pedestrian gates. Take the L path which will slightly ascend to a flat but fairly muddy path. Look R and you will see a small waterfall! Walk this path along the stream until you see a slope that dips into the river. This is where you can get your wellies on and cross the water to the other side! Take care as if there has been lots of rain, the water can run too high and you may need to turn back!

1

Once you are across the water, turn R and walk along the path which will head up and merges to the main path. While walking, toward the bridge, the woods to your L open up a nice space to spot any birds or other wildlife in the area! Can you spot the nest boxes?! Back on the path and to the Pixie bridge and stream that runs underneath it. Another chance to make a splash as you cross safely or use the bridge to keep dry!

Continue on the path across the bridge. Step over the low green barriers and follow the path that curves R. This curve will lead you back to the train crossing. Head safely over the train tracks via the gates and take the first street (Taff Street) on the L. Take a R when you see the park gate to Treherbert Park. The path will wrap around the park, heading forward to the river, turning L, continuing past the courts and to the playground.

3

When you get to the playground, make sure you have fun! When you're finished here, wrap L around the playground to the gate that exits the park onto a lane. Walk the lane back to the park entry, turn R, then L to arrive back to Treherbert train station. There are public toilets at the top of the street, across the road, as well as a row of shops for your needs. Be sure to explore more of Treherbert!
